

ABO | ATLANTA
BAROQUE
ORCHESTRA

JULIE ANDRIJESKI, DIRECTOR

Irregular Pearls: Music from the Time of Vermeer

*A collaboration with the High Museum of Art celebrating the exhibition
"Girl with a Pearl Earring: Dutch Paintings from the Mauritshuis"*

Saturday 7 September 2013, 7:30 pm
Roswell Presbyterian Church
755 Mimosa Boulevard ∞ Roswell, Georgia

PROGRAM

| | |
|---|---|
| Malle Symen (“Simple Simon”) | Popular tune, arr. Julie Andrijeski based on Divisions by Jan Sweelinck (1562-1621) and Jacob van Noordt (1619-after 1679) |
| Carileen | Pieter Dircksz Pers (fl. 1644) |
| Symphonia IV à 3, Op. 3 | Nicolaus à Kempis (ca. 1600-1676) |
| “Judentanz” (“Jewish Dance”) | Heinrich Scheidemann (1595-1663) |
| Praeludium from t’Uitnement Kabinett | Johann Schop (ca. 1590-1667) |
| Sonata decima from Fascilis dulcedinis | Philippe van Wichel (1614-1675) |
| Ballet Suite XXI a5 in D | William Brade (1560-1630) |
| Sonata in A Minor | Johannes Schenk (1660-after 1712) |
| Adagio – Gigue | |
| “O Nachbar Roland” | Samuel Scheidt (1587-1654) |

INTERMISSION

| | |
|---|---|
| “Daphne” | Popular tune, arr. J. Andrijeski Based on Divisions by Jacob van Eyck (ca. 1590-1657) |
| Sonata sesta from Harmonia Parnassia | Carolus Hacquart (ca. 1640-ca. 1701) |
| “Engelse Nachtegaeltje” (“The English Nightingale”) | van Eyck |
| Symphonia 2, Op. 2 | Kempis |
| “Derde Kusjen” (“The Third Kiss”) | Cornelis Padbrué (ca. 1592-1670) |
| “Frere Frapar, al pratende” (“Brother Frapar, as spoken”) | Anon., arr. J. Andrijeski from t’Uitnement Kabinett |

ABO | ATLANTA BAROQUE ORCHESTRA

Violin

Julie Andrijeski,
Artistic Director and Concertmaster
Ute Marks

Viola

Karen Clarke
Melissa Brewer

Viola da Gamba

Brent S. Wissick

Flute

Catherine Bull

Lute

Lyle Nordstrom

Harpsichord

Daniel Pyle

Julie Andrijeski, Artistic Director and Concertmaster

Lauded for her “invigorating verve and imagination” by the Washington Post, Julie Andrijeski is among the leading Baroque violinists in the U.S. Her unique musical performance style is greatly influenced by her knowledge and skilled performance of Baroque dance, and she often combines these two mediums in the classroom, on stage, and at workshops. Dr. Andrijeski maintains an active performance schedule. In addition to her Artistic Directorship of the Atlanta Baroque Orchestra, she holds principal positions with New York State Baroque (Concertmaster), Quicksilver (Co-Director), Apollo’s Fire (Principal Player), Les Délices, and the Boston Early Music Festival Orchestra; and is often invited to play with diverse early music groups across the nation and abroad. Her teaching schedule is equally active. As a full-time Lecturer in the Music Department at Case Western Reserve University she teaches early music performance practices and directs the Case/CIM Baroque Orchestra and Baroque Chamber Music and Dance Ensembles. Special teaching engagements at other institutions include residencies at the Juilliard School, Oberlin Conservatory, and Indiana University, among others. During the summers, Dr. Andrijeski teaches both baroque violin and dance at several festivals including those in Oberlin (BPI), Madison (MEMF), and Vancouver, BC (BIP). Dr. Andrijeski holds a D.M.A. in Early Music from CWRU, an M.M. from Northwestern University and a B.M. from the University of Denver. Her recordings can be found on Dorian Recordings, Avie, Koch, Acis Productions, Centaur, and Musica Omnia.

Lyle Nordstrom, Director Emeritus

The ABO welcomes back Lyle Nordstrom, lutenist and the ensemble’s founding artistic director for this 15th anniversary performance. Well known for his performances and recordings, Dr. Nordstrom has been recognized as one of the most influential collegiate educators in early music in the last several decades, and as such earned Early Music America’s Binkley Award. In the course of his college teaching career he has led the early music programs at Oakland University in Michigan, Clayton State College and University in Atlanta and, most recently, at the famed College of Music at the University of North Texas, retiring in 2010. He is also known for his scholarly contributions to various early music journals as well as a book about the wire-strung bandora and articles in the New Grove Dictionary of Music and Musicians. He is also well known as a founder of The Musicians of Swanne Alley, a group he directed with Paul O’Dette from 1976 to 1996, performing with them at nearly every major early music festival in the US and Europe, and contributing his performing and editing talents to recordings on Focus, Harmonia Mundi and Virgin Classics. The movie Rob Roy features music edited by Nordstrom in performances by Swanne Alley. In 1997, Lyle also founded the Atlanta Baroque Orchestra and is now the Director Emeritus. He continues to perform with various ensembles, notably Armonia Celeste.

Program Notes

The iridescent jewel shimmering in Johan Vermeer's Girl with a Pearl Earring captivates the eye, but not all pearls are so perfectly shaped, weighted, or smooth. The French called rough or irregular pearls baroque, and the term now denotes the ornate and unpredictable art produced by seventeenth-century Europe. By turns intimate, brash, tender, and rousing, the eclectic music of Vermeer's time contains pearls of myriad dimensions.

In the centuries before Vermeer's own, Netherlandish composers dominated European music to an unprecedented degree. Adrian Willaert and Orlande de Lassus were among the dozens of Dutch and Flemish composers to staff important positions throughout Europe and make Netherlandish music an international style. By Vermeer's day, however, the situation had changed. Civil discord and the rise of both France and Italy as cultural exporters gradually weakened Dutch influence abroad, and the advent of Calvinism strictly limited public music-making within the country itself. Aside from its famous Carillon towers, organs, and amateur music societies, there were relatively few venues for public concerts. One traveler passing through the Netherlands complained that the only music to be heard was "the jingling of bells and ducats."

The seventeenth-century Netherlands retained a rich musical culture, however; it had simply moved to a more intimate, less public setting. Bourgeois amateurs pursued their musical pastimes privately among friends and family, and wealthy patrons commissioned works better suited to salons than concert halls. The subject matter of the Golden Age of Dutch painting underwent a similar development. While painters elsewhere busied themselves with religious or grand historical scenes, Dutch painters cultivated a strikingly modern interest in the ordinary and domestic. Rembrandt van Rijn, Dirck Hals, and Vermeer, among others, all demonstrated the same fascination with the humble but dignified life of the middle classes. Vermeer himself shed light on his era's musical culture in such paintings as The Music Lesson, The Guitarist, and Young Girl with Flute. The Netherlands' free and liberal press eagerly supplied these amateurs with music tailored to their tastes and abilities, and much of the music on this program draws on these publications originally intended for domestic merriment.

Der Fluyten Lust-hof ("The Flute's Garden of Delights") was published at mid-century in Amsterdam and collected many of the century's popular tunes arranged for descant recorder. Its author, Jacob van Eyck, was a Dutch carillonneur who supplemented his income playing flute for churchyard strollers. "Malle Symen" ("Simple Simon"), "Daphne," and "Engelse Nachtegaeltje" ("English Nightingale") are all found in van Eyck's anthology, although each had existed in popular culture long before and were often set by composers. "Malle Symen" and "Daphne" especially have the lilting, melancholy air of folk songs. "Engelse Nachtegaeltje" even seems to incorporate the bird's song into its melody. Van Eyck treated each tune to progressively difficult variations to showcase his own considerable skill, and the arrangements on this program continue the tradition of adapting these popular melodies to specific performers and audiences.

Program Notes (continued)

A second important collection of music from mid-century Amsterdam is 't Uitnemen Cabinet (“The Excellent Cabinet”), an anthology of pieces for one, two, and three unspecified instruments by both Dutch and foreign composers. The contents of this “excellent cabinet” offer a glimpse into the varied musical life of Vermeer’s contemporaries. Some of the pieces were common currency, including “Carileen,” a theater tune often paired with words about an amorous shepherdess, and “Frere Frapar.” Others, such as the German Johann Schop’s Praeludium, are progressive and challenging works that would have taxed any player’s ability. The Dutch public clearly wanted music suitable for a wide range of ensembles and technical skill. Nicolaus à Kempis orchestrated his many Symphonias for a varied number of instrumental combinations and introduced to them the virtuosic figuration characteristic of Italian sonatas. The dance suites of William Brade, an Englishman, and the elegant but demanding sonatas for viola da gamba by Johannes Schenk draw on English and French viol traditions, illuminating the intermingled national styles within the Netherlands’ cosmopolitan cities.

Samuel Scheidt and Heinrich Scheidemann were both German composers who studied in Amsterdam with the great Dutch organist Jan Pieterszoon Sweelinck. Scheidt’s fame rests primarily upon his organ and sacred music, but his music for instrumental ensemble has great appeal, too. “O Nachbar Roland” adopts an English tune as its subject, first heard in the second violin, and spins a series of tightly woven variations leading to a climactic conclusion. The tune Scheidemann sets as his Judentanz (“Jewish Dance”) also has English, not Jewish, origins. It was a popular melody, appearing in van Eyck’s collection under the title “Kit’s Allemande.” Scheidemann subjects the tune to elaborate divisions and mutations, exploiting its colorful harmonic potential.

It is the Flemish composer Carolus Hacquart, however, who best captures the dynamic play of light and dark that so characterizes Dutch painting. His Sonata sesta, from the collection Harmonia Parnassia, boldly juxtaposes themes, affections, orchestration, and timbre. Surprising bizzaria, such as the rapid alternation of adagio and presto tempi within the same movement, lend this work a very Baroque unpredictability.

Cornelis Padbrué, a Haarlem town musician and one of the foremost Dutch composers of the seventeenth century, published one of the few books of madrigals on a Dutch text in 1631. Entitled Kusjen (“Kisses”), these pieces playfully set a translation of the Book of Kisses, a collection of erotic ruminations by Johannes Secundus. In each poem, Secundus invokes the ravishing lips of his mistress. Padbrué’s music embodies the text, often illustrating musically specific words and phrases, and loses none of its charm when performed by instruments alone. The opening lines of the Derde Kusjen (“Third Kiss”) give a taste of the poem’s tenor:

’Tis no Kiss my Fair bestows;
Nectar ’tis whence new Life flows;
All the Sweets which nimble Bees
In their ozier Treasuries
With unequall’d Art repose
In one Kiss her Lips disclose.

— Michael Bane

The Atlanta Baroque Orchestra

is the first and longest-running professional Baroque chamber orchestra in the Southeastern United States, and has been performing continuously since 1998. Since its founding, the ABO has been applauded for its freshness and verve, and for its delightful, convincing performances of instrumental works, sacred vocal and choral music, and dance.

Many ABO musicians serve on the faculty of leading music schools across the United States, and travel to Georgia for each concert. ABO musicians frequently perform within a large network of other early music ensembles throughout the nation and across the world.

Based in Roswell, Georgia, and Artists in Residence at Roswell Presbyterian Church, the Orchestra receives generous support from a variety of individuals.

Atlanta Baroque Orchestra Board of Directors

Mim Kelly, President
Rich Nuckolls, Vice President
George Riordan, Secretary
Gerald Hickman, Treasurer
Cathy Adams

Barry Bauguess
Melissa Brewer, Chair, Musicians Committee
Rachel Byrd
Gail Cramer
Melanie Punter

The Orchestra would like to thank the following for contributing their time, talents, and energy in helping us put on our concerts.

Roswell Presbyterian Church and
Bruce Graham, Director of Music
The High Museum of Art and Leslie Planas
The Federal Home Loan Bank of Atlanta
Robbie Feazel and Shirley Brown
Atlanta Early Music Alliance (AEMA)
Cynthia Walsh for grant development
Richard Greene for grant development
Melissa Brewer for service as personnel manager and housing
Our many volunteers

Thanks to those providing housing for our traveling musicians.

Linda Carlyle
Carol Fowler
Lisa & Bruce Gunning
Shawn Pagliarini & Russell Williamson
Priscilla & Nicholas Summers

*Woodcuts by Jost Amman, 1539-1591
Engraving by Cesare Ripa, 1560-1622*

EMBELLISH A MELODY

Handel Club ($10,000 – $15,000)

Cathy & Mark Adams

Vivaldi Club ($5,000 – $9,999)

Anonymous
Mim Kelly & Richard Greene
Federal Home Loan Bank of Atlanta
Karen Clarke & George Riordan

Telemann Club ($2,500 – $4,999)

Patricia & Peter DeWitt

Corelli Club ($1,000 – $2,499)

Julie Andrijeski & J. Tracy Mortimore
Gail & Robert Cramer
Par Lee & Gerald Hickman
Jane Tripp & Douglas Leonard
Norfolk Southern Matching Fund
Rich & Caroline Nuckolls
Lois Z. Pyle

Purcell Club ($500 – $999)

Atlanta Early Music Alliance
Mary Beth Clough & Ronald Collins
K.T. & Thecla Doyle
Dr. Terre Johnson
Ute & William Marks
Susan Wagner

Scarlatti Club ($250 – $499)

Will Curns
Janie Hicks
Susanne W. Howe
Antoinette & Paul Light
Jane & Ephraim McLean
Shawn Pagliarini & Russell Williamson

Rameau Club ($100 – $249)

Shirley Brown
Anne P. Halliwell
Lyn & Bob Turknett
Donald M. Gedeon
D. E. Hammer
Lamotte Jones, Inc.
Glenda Lee
Lyle & Pat Nordstrom
Chris & Denny Shoemaker

Pachelbel Club (up to $99)

Melissa Brewer
Danny Mallon
Michael McGinnis
Francis & Benjamin Persons
Leslie Prendergast
Ed & Charlotte Trainer
Daniel Zuluaga

Contributions

The ABO is a 501(c)3 incorporated non-profit arts organization based in Roswell, Georgia. Contributions, which are tax-deductible, are central to our survival, and greatly appreciated.

Support us and our future programming by Credit Card, PayPal or Check.

Visit our Web site at atlantabaroque.org, or send a check made out to "The Atlanta Baroque Orchestra," to 1734 Miramonte Way
Lawrenceville GA 30045.

Friends of the arts in the community are welcome to contact us about serving on the Atlanta Baroque Orchestra Board of Directors.

Our 2013-2014 Season
Playing with Others: A Year of Collaborations

Special Event Tomorrow, September 8 at the High Museum of Art

Buy tickets to the “Girl with a Pearl Earring: Dutch Paintings from the Mauritshuis” exhibition and see the Atlanta Baroque perform excerpts from tonight’s concert in the Museum for the same price.

12:00 to 2:00pm Gigue in the Gallery
Hear the Orchestra perform right in the museum galleries as you stroll past the paintings of the Dutch masters.

3:00 to 4:00 pm If it’s not Baroque
 Family Day Concert in the Robinson Atrium
Performances, Stories, Instrument Show-and-Tell.

Purchase tickets at high.org, or call the museum’s box office at 404-733-5000.

Collaborations from Within: A Special Anniversary Retrospective

an orchestral collaboration by our Southeastern corps of musicians led by Artistic Director Julie Andrijeski
Sunday, January 12, 2014 at 4 p.m. - Roswell Presbyterian Church

Bach Birthday Bash

a collaboration with the Georgia Boy Choir, David R. White, director, featuring the music of Johann Sebastian Bach, led by David R. White and Julie Andrijeski

Saturday, March 22, 2014 at 7:30 p.m., Peachtree Road United Methodist Church

Sunday, March 23, 2014 at 4 p.m., Roswell Presbyterian Church

VISIT US ONLINE

atlantabaroque.org

facebook.com/atlantabaroque.org

CONTACT US

Atlanta Baroque Orchestra

1734 Miramonte Way

Lawrenceville GA 30045

(850) 264-9293

info@atlantabaroque.org

Support provided by

